| If we want to get to something reasonable, CEL should get to 5.5-6  |                |                             |                                 |

| It will get there if we announce the buyback but it has to happen tomorrow.   |                |                             |                                 |

| We need to find a way it won't look as a desperate move   |                |                             |                                 |

| We will say - we bought so much, the price still went down  |                |                             |                                 |

| And now we're buying more even though we hold (together with founders and employees) - over 60 percent of CEL               |                |                             |                                 |

| We show strong support for CEL and remind everyone soon US will earn in CEL. All we need to do is tilt to positive momentum |                |                             |                                 |
